Frequently asked questions

Q. Is there a fee to take advantage of an offer?

A. Yes, typically a per transaction fee on the transfer amount will apply. However, the money you save on interest from this low-rate promotional offer will often be greater than the fee. Check your current offer details on the front of this letter.

Q. Will I be charged interest on Purchases if I take advantage of this promotional-rate offer?

A. This promotional offer does not apply to your card purchases. In addition, if you make purchases while carrying a promotional-rate cash balance, you'll immediately incur interest on those purchases, unless you have a 0% rate on purchases or you pay either the entire Interest Saving Balance or Statement Balance each month.

Q. If I use this promotional offer, how will my payments be applied?

A. We will first allocate the amount of your payment equal to the Total Minimum Payment Due to any Custom Pay Plan Payment due, then to the lowest APR balances in turn. Payment amounts in excess of your Total Minimum Payment Due will be applied to balances with higher APRs before balances with lower APRs, and finally to any Custom Pay Plan balances.

Q. Do I need to make the monthly minimum payment?

A. Yes. If you have any balance on your account, you must always make at least the minimum monthly payment by the due date to avoid any late fees or charges.

Q. If I have recurring payments set up for my account, do I need to change anything when I transfer a balance to my card?

A. You should check your recurring payment settings to ensure you are paying at least the Total Minimum Payment Due or that you don't pay the Statement Balance or Interest Saving Balance unintentionally.

Q. What happens if I still have a balance when my promotional rate ends?

A. When promotional rates end, the standard rate for the applicable transaction types will be applied to any remaining balances for those transaction types. See the Interest Charge Calculation section of your billing statement for current rates.

Q. What types of balances can I transfer to my card?

A. You can transfer balances from any non-Bank of America account, including:

- ✓ Credit cards
- ✓ Gas cards
- ✓ Retail and department store cards
- ✓ Personal loans
- ✓ Auto loans
- ✓ Home equity loans or lines of credit

Q. After I transfer a balance, do I need to continue to make payments to my other lender?

A. Yes, because transfer times vary. To avoid any fees or other charges, you should continue to make at least the minimum monthly payment until you see the transfer amount credited to your other account.

Q. What is APR?

A. An APR, or Annual Percentage Rate, is the interest charged on a credit card or loan expressed as an annualized amount.

Q. Will I earn rewards if I take advantage of this promotional-rate offer?

A. No. If you have a rewards card, you only earn rewards on qualified card purchases.

[5] Promotional Offers: From time to time we may make Promotional Offers on certain Balance Transfers, Cash Advances, Direct Deposits and Purchases. Promotional Offers may include limited-time introductory or promotional APRs that are lower than the Standard APRs for those features and may be subject to other conditions. Promotional Offers may include limited-time transaction fees which may be lower than the standard fees provided in your Credit Card Agreement. Your account must be open with active charging privileges at the time a transaction is processed and you must have sufficient available credit to cover the amount of the transaction and any related fees.

There is no grace period for Balance Transfers. Interest accrues from the transaction date. The Average Balance Method (including new Balance Transfers) as described in your Credit Card Agreement (and on your periodic statement) is used to compute your balance subject to interest rate for Balance Transfer and Promotional Offer balances.

You may not use this account to make a payment on this or any other credit account or loan issued by Bank of America, N.A., or its affiliates.

Monthly minimum payments are required when you carry a balance. Payments are allocated to posted balances. We will first allocate the amount of your payment equal to the Total Minimum Payment Due to any Custom Pay Plan Payment due, then to the lowest APR balances in turn. Payment amounts in excess of your Total Minimum Payment Due will be applied to balances with higher APRs before balances with lower APRs, and finally to any Custom Pay Plan balances.
